ABOUT ME

Data Scientist and Business Analyst with experience in the travel and municipal sectors, leveraging Python, Tableau, and SQL to drive data-informed decisions and optimize financial performance. Proven ability to lead projects from conception to execution, including an initiative at Snapptrip that reduced losses on guaranteed room inventory. A collaborative team player with strong mentoring skills and a background in full-stack development, bringing a unique technical perspective to data challenges. Effective communicator with professional proficiency in English (C1) and Italian (B1 level, currently studying). The application of these technical and analytical skills is demonstrated through projects available on my GitHub account.
